Laval, New York City, L. L. Neil, Lincoln, Neb., and G. S. Goodall and family of Rochester, N. Y.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Richardson carried eight young guests to Oxford, where a party was given to Howard Aubin of Bethel at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Glover. Howard celebrated his eighth birthday and a large cake made for the occasion was cut and served with the ices. Games and other sports entertained the young guests. The children from Norway included Paul Morse, Evangeline Morse, Lorraine Rowe, Laura Yates, Iva Yates, Edmund Raymond, Virginia Frost and Stanley Frost.

Encouraging reports have been received from Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Cushman, in Boston, Mass., concerning the condition of their daughter, Mrs. Marita Kneeland, who is under special treatment at the Peter Bent Hospital in that city. Mrs. Kneeland was stricken with infantile paralysis which affected her throat. Her parents in Norway were hastily summoned to her bedside and have headquarters in a hotel near the hospital.

Members of the St. Catherine parish held a sale and lawn party on the rectory grounds Wednesday afternoon and evening. There were five tastefully decorated booths where food, refreshments and fancy articles were sold. Colored lights were turned on in the evening and a bean game with suitable prizes attracted large business. A ball throwing game where pins were knocked down, proved exciting sport for young gamesters.

It is said: A bright little lad, age seven years, a member of a flock of children on Water street, amused a store full of customers a few mornings ago at Stone's drug store on a Sunday morning. The head of the house walked in for his Sunday paper and saw the youngster pulling lustily through a straw at the right end of a glass of soda. "Here, where did you get the money for that drink?" said the father. "You gave it to me, Dad," replied the hopeful with a grin. "But I gave you some money for the church collection box. Do you know where little boys go who take money away from the church box?" asked the father, sternly. "Yes, they go to the movies," was the quick reply.

A number of young people from the Norway churches attended the Young People's Council Meeting at the Waterford Flat church, Sunday evening. About 50 climbed to the top of Mt. Tir'em where they had picnic lunch. They found the climb over the mountain quite a strenuous one, but worth the effort, as the mountain itself is very picturesque, and the view from the top is extended and beautiful. On returning to the Wilkins community house, a devotional service was held. Short addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Annis from Massachusetts and Rev. Mr. Porter from New York state. The speakers were introduced by Rev. R. S. Colby of the South Paris Congregational Church. There were ten from Norway, six from South Paris and the others from the churches in the vicinity.

Pine Tree League

Paris has withdrawn from the league and the game scheduled with Norway was not played last Saturday.

The action to quit closely followed the game at Lisbon Falls, when the affair was called after the first half of the ninth on account of darkness. Paris was leading, but when the game reverted to the score at the last even inning Lisbon Falls had the margin. Paris stands on the argument that their runs in the last half were from fair hits, and not from errors due to gathering darkness. In other words the umpire's action in calling the game on uneven innings was hasty.

Gordon Coffin pitched the Norway Rattlers to a 6 to 0 victory over South Paris in an Oxford County League tilt, Saturday. Coffin allowed but six scattered hits and pitched air tight to spoil Paris' chance in the pinches. Bumpus for Paris pulled two hot drives out of the atmosphere on the torrid corner and was the outsanding fielder of the game.

Country Club Well

Below Lake Level, But No Water

After drilling 550 feet on the Norway Country Club hill-top without finding water in any volume, the Bangor Well Drilling Corporation has suspended operations for a time and located the outfit at South Woodstock. On their return, another spot will be selected on the Country Club lot.

For two months, workmen have labored with the drilling equipment to fulfill a guarantee to furnish a constant supply of water, sufficient for sprinkling the new golf course and for other purposes. A vein was located with a crotched twig from a witch hazel tree, but this spot was not considered by the contractors.

After drilling one hundred feet into the granite hill, a vein was tapped that gave a flow of five gallons a minute. This was not sufficient, and work proceeded for greater results. When down several hundred feet, the rope cable parted and some time was lost recovering the heavy drill.

The climax came on Friday, when dynamite was exploded in the hole at the one hundred foot level to increase the flow at that point. The blast filled the workings with debris and caused the loss of the drill, together with a section of the cable, being a loss of several hundred dollars.

At present the hole is below the level of Lake Pennesseewassee and other bodies of water in this territory, but the drillers are confident the project will eventually be a success from the water standpoint. A fixed price clears the Country Club, but the contractors appear to be harnessed to a dead horse.

The invitation of Mrs. Mamie Twitchell to meet for supper at her home on Fore street, Sept. 16, was accepted. Mrs. Bowser will join with Mrs. Twitchell as hostess.

The remainder of the evening was enjoyed in a social way, there being no formal program.

LIKE WHISTLER, SEITZ HAS A FRIEND

Don C. Seitz, Cos Cob, learning a Bridgport newspaper reported a meeting of Connecticut Democratic Committee there Thursday as mentioning him as a possible Democratic for Governor, told the News and Graphic that, like Whistler, the painter, he might have a friend "whose name he does not recall." Mr. Seitz said he would work for his party this fall if opportunity presented itself, although he realized that the Republicans had largely bought up the Democrats here in the last ten years. The same paper says:

Don Seitz for Governor

The suggestion of Don Seitz for governor on the Democratic ticket sounds good. On being informed of such a possibility is in the air and that his name had been mentioned in such connection at a recent Democratic gathering, Don recalled the incident of Whistler and whistled, "I may have a friend, but his name I do not recall." But contemplate the psychological effect on the weary and waning remnants of the Democratic party in Connecticut, of Don's hat sailing into the ring. What a fluttering and scrambling would ensue in the lounging room of the "What's the use club?" Seitz vs. Levitt. Could any combination offer the promise of a more exhilarating campaign?

Obituary

S. Bion Pike

S. Bion Pike died suddenly at his home on Pike Hill, August 7. He was about his farm work as usual that morning and the end came with only brief warning. Having suffered from heart trouble a few years, he had not been able to do much hard work.

Mr. Pike was the son of Franklin T. and Sarah M. Whitehouse Pike, and had always lived on the farm where he was born Aug. 17, 1867. He married Miss Ina French of Norway. He was a member of Norway Lodge I. O. O. F.

His ancestors were among the early settlers of Norway.

He is survived by his widow, one brother, Clarence B. Pike, who lives in Mansfield, Mass., and one sister, Mrs. Kate Bradbury, of Norway.

Services were held Sunday at 2 p. m., at Spiller's Funeral Home, attended by Rev. O. E. Bryant of Clinton, N. C. The bearers were Harry Goodwin, Archie Goodwin, U. S. G. Abbott and Arthur Robbins. Interment was at Norway Pine Grove Cemetery.

ENTERTAINING FOR A MEDICINE MAN

Frederick Marshall Davis of Lewiston, formerly of Norway, is barnstorming with a medicine vender and writes interestingly about his travels as pitchman and entertainer. Here is Fred's description of the life with Dr. A. Millett of Portland:

"I left the yacht painting job to tour Maine and New Hampshire with Dr. Millett of Portland.

"The doctor sings, sells medicine, saves lives, performs miracles and cures ills of long standing. Places visited last week were Augusta, Waterville, Strong, Phillips, Madison, Bingham and Jackman, stopped at Bangor last Monday on way through Aroostook County and points along the Kennebec valley and the Canadian border. I advertise the Vega banjo and have a violin as a present, on board the car, that is two hundred and fourteen years old, that the doctor wants me to play in the South with him this winter. We take a camera along that helps out to illustrate notes in writing.

"We made a pitch at Bingham close by the Wyman power dam that is now being made, just above the town on the Kennebec river. The great job goes on systematically, night and day. Bright lights overhead turn the night time into day and the rays tell you that something big is being done while an illumination reaches far into the sky that can be plainly seen from any point many miles away. I looked at small islands in the river, that with others, must soon say goodbye to sunshine and rain for a long time to come, perhaps forever.

New highways are being built far up from the river, hills are already stripped of their timber growth, sets of buildings laid low and farms prepared to be entirely submerged by this mighty project of a storage basin. A short space of time was taken at the dam, while the examining doctor, Mr. Hayes, told me to look around and act my own pleasure.

It had been twenty-nine years since I crossed the St. Lawrence at Montreal and my sixty-five mile ride from Fort Kent to Grand Falls along the valley of the St. John's River, yesterday, brought back memories of Canadian waters that I viewed in the dear long ago.

"Today, Aug. 9, looking at the St. Johns River from its banks along the Canadian border, its dark waters move lazily along, denoting great depth. Many small villages are seen along the river valley, where industries are common, also wonderful spacious, well laid out farms. The people raise plenty, their tables teem with abundant food products.

Today at Van Buran, chain stores are seen, many horses are used along the way. Flour mills are near at hand and wheat is raised here in abundance. As a country, Canada is delightful. It is plain that God did not forget to dress up this part of the universe.

A. L. Scribner has gone to Detroit, where his daughter, Mildred, resides.

Thelma Kimball has returned from a visit with her cousin, Edith Wiley at East Otisfield.

Millie Wiley of Otisfield spent several days with her aunt, Mrs. Mary Kimball and family.

Whitman and three children, George, Mary and Carlton, of Salem, Mass., are spending two weeks at "Uneeda Rest" cottage, Pennesseewassee lake, which is near the Noyes-Partridge cottage. Mr. Whitman has also visited his mother, Mrs. George Whitman, who lives on Alpine street in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Irish and daughter, Alice, of Salem, Mass., have been guests of Mrs. Irish's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Will Newcomb, at the Falls. VAN ARNAM'S MINSTRELS COMING IN BIG TENT

John R. Van Arnam's big minstrels will be seen in South Paris and Norway this year in their new beautiful tent theatre, said to be the finest in America. They will play on the fair grounds for one night only, Saturday, August 16. The company is much larger than before, carrying now 40 people and a lot of novelties never before seen with this organization. Reserved seats are now on sale at Stone's drug store, Norway, and Howard's drug store, South Paris.

Van Arnam's Minstrels was built with the idea of making our patrons forget their troubles and have an evening of clean, wholesome entertainment. The comedy is the most important feature of minstrelsy, hence our special effort to present a collection of the best and brightest commedians of the day. True comedy is a born trait, hence we aim to employ natural comedians. We have this year for our premier, Slipfoot Clifton, "The Boy from the Blue Grass", a singing and dancing comedian par excellence, who also plays the largest saxaphone made. Billy Henderson, "The Georgia Sunflower" needs no introduction, he made you laugh last year and will bring a new budget of witty sayings and Tropical songs.

Al "Weedy" Pinard and Rodney Roberts will entertain you with real black fast wit and some of the fastest trick dancing you ever saw. And a host of new faces this year. There will be a big street parade at noon in both towns.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

F. O. Merrill, a salesman for the Neidich Process Company of Burlington, N. J., manufacturers of carbon papers and typewriter ribbons, called in Thursday. He is spending his vacation in Maine and taking orders. He met friends here from Massachusetts and journeyed to Gorham, N. H.

We have been printing posters for Mrs. Dana M. Stuart of Harrison, for the Ninth Annual Antique Auction Sale which will be held at the residence of the late Dana M. Stuart, on Friday, August 22, a 9:30, a. m., standard time. Frank Bryer will be the auctioneer. The sale includes a lot of fine antiques. See ad in this issue.

D. M. French of the McLellan Packing Co. at Pittsfield, N. H., reports sweet corn as looking fine in that section. He has six hundred acres growing for their factory and expects to put up a million and a half cans. We recently saw Mr. French at the Washington House at Pittsfield. He is hale and hearty and hopes to visit Norway before their busy season commences.

R. E. Small of South Paris was in, Saturday, and placed an ad in this issue, telling of the band concert which will be held in Norway next Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5, probably at Witherell Park, under the auspices of the Standard Oil Co., of New York. The Norway-Paris Band will furnish the music. The concert is given, introducing Socony Banner Gasoline. See ad.

Julius Fuller of Oxford called Thursday morning and renewed his subscription; said he was nearly 100 this morning (but we know he was fooling and not quite that age); he also said he was nearly blind, but must have the Advertiser just the same. Said when he was in town he always comes in to see F. W. Sanborn. We invited him to come again as Mr. Sanborn was in New Hampshire for a few days.

A photograph from Walter J. Glidden, in Sao Paulo, Brazil, S. A., to Fisherman Fred, showing the young heir, 'Buddy" Glidden, casting a fly in the turbulent waters. The stream looks inviting and productive of anything except trout, the great attraction to Middle Dam and Moosehead Lake. Mr. Glidden, formerly of Norway, is superintendent of the shoe manufacturing concern, Companhia Calcado Clark, in Sao Paulo. According to the cut on the business envelope, the building covers several acres and is a combination of tannery and factory.

Mrs. Alma Pendexter Hayden writes: "I think it is 53 years ago this month that I first came to Norway to teach Latin, French and German in the high school. In those days the fall term began a little earlier than has been the custom since then. Fifty-three years is a long time, but I still remember the boys and girls of that day, and those who came after. My address is 256 Thurston Road, Rochester, N. Y., where I expect to remain for the remaining years of my life. Shall think of you all at reunion, but do not expect ever to be with you again. Glad of the letters I still receive from my dear pupils."

Col. Bill Bates, advance agent for the John R. Van Arnam's Minstrels, was in, Saturday, and placed advertising for this issue. The show will appear on the fair grounds the evening of August 16, in a canvas theatre that will seat about 1,000 persons. Van's portable electric light plant illuminates the grounds and theatre also furnishes special effects for the acts. Bill states that the show will arrive early with a fleet of motor trucks, trailers and pullmans, being one of the best gas propelled outfits on the road. The show is well known in this territory and needs no boosting, for its high quality during past years is still maintained under the progressive management of Van, a former football star and coach.

Rev. Carl S. Weist of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who is spending the summer at North Lovell, in a recent letter says:

"I am sending you "To Speckled Mountain," a bit of verse by the writer, published in The Congregationalist several weeks ago. It has just occurred to me that the poem might be of interest to your readers since Speckled Mountain rises quickly from the north end of Kezar Lake, where many readers live.

"You may remember me as a caller at your office one day last August when I subscribed for your interesting paper. I am pastor of "The Community Church at the Circle" (formerly First Congregational) at Mount Vernon, New York.

"Mrs. Weist and I have become quite attached to Norway in the last few years. We do much of our shopping there, root for your baseball team, enjoy your people and read your paper with avidity. Norway is an enterprising little city, we think."

Poem referred to appears in this week's Advertiser.

S. H. Burnham of Lincoln, Neb., has this to say regarding fish and fishing in Maine. Also a word about golfing:

"You know I don't think there is any fish in the world like New England trout. I remember once when Sumner, Herman Judkins, Herm Horne and I went fishing up somewhere and got lost in the woods. We traveled all one afternoon and finally gave it up, and agreed that we were absolutely lost and would probably come out of the woods fifty miles from where we went in. About sunset we came out, not ten rods from where we went in. Sumner had a compass on his watch chain, but for the first time in all the years he used it, it didn't function. We finally reached home about ten o'clock that night. I think that was about the last fishing trip I ever took in Maine."

"I notice, by the way, that you have a golf course in Norway. You know I was a crank on golf for many years, and started the game here in this town. I have played in the different cities in this country and at St. Andrews in Scotland, at London and at Versailles, but I had to

Howard celebrated his eighth birthday and a large cake made for the occasion was cut and served with the ices. Games and other sports entertained the young guests. The children from Norway included Paul Morse, Evangeline Morse, Lorraine Rowe, Laura Yates, Iva Yates, Edmund Raymond, Virginia Frost and Stanley Frost.

Encouraging reports have been received from Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Cushman, in Boston, Mass., concerning the condition of their daughter, Mrs. Marita Kneeland, who is under special treatment at the Peter Bent Hospital in that city. Mrs. Kneeland was stricken with infantile paralysis which affected her throat. Her parents in Norway were hastily summoned to her bedside and have headquarters in a hotel near the hospital.

Members of the St. Catherine parish held a sale and lawn party on the rectory grounds Wednesday afternoon and evening. There were five tastefully decorated booths where food, refreshments and fancy articles were sold. Colored lights were turned on in the evening and a bean game with suitable prizes attracted large business. A ball throwing game where pins were knocked down, proved exciting sport for young gamesters.

It is said: A bright little lad, age seven years, a member of a flock of children on Water street, amused a store full of customers a few mornings ago at Stone's drug store on a Sunday morning. The head of the house walked in for his Sunday paper and saw the youngster pulling lustily through a straw at the right end of a glass of soda. "Here, where did you get the money for that drink?" said the father. "You gave it to me, Dad," replied the hopeful with a grin. "But I gave you some money for the church collection box. Do you know where little boys go who take money away from the church box?" asked the father, sternly. "Yes, they go to the movies," was the quick reply.

A number of young people from the Norway churches attended the Young People's Council Meeting at the Waterford Flat church, Sunday evening. About 50 climbed to the top of Mt. Tir'em where they had picnic lunch. They found the climb over the mountain quite a strenuous one, but worth the effort, as the mountain itself is very picturesque, and the view from the top is extended and beautiful. On returning to the Wilkins community house, a devotional service was held. Short addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Annis from Massachusetts and Rev. Mr. Porter from New York state. The speakers were introduced by Rev. R. S. Colby of the South Paris Congregational Church. There were ten from Norway, six from South Paris and the others from the churches in the vicinity.

Pine Tree League

Paris has withdrawn from the league and the game scheduled with Norway was not played last Saturday.

The action to quit closely followed the game at Lisbon Falls, when the affair was called after the first half of the ninth on account of darkness. Paris was leading, but when the game reverted to the score at the last even inning Lisbon Falls had the margin. Paris stands on the argument that their runs in the last half were from fair hits, and not from errors due to gathering darkness. In other words the umpire's action in calling the game on uneven innings was hasty.

Coffin Blanks South Paris

Gordon Coffin pitched the Norway Rattlers to a 6 to 0 victory over South Paris in an Oxford County League tilt, Saturday. Coffin allowed but six scattered hits and pitched air tight to spoil Paris' chance in the pinches. Bumpus for Paris pulled two hot drives out of the atmosphere on the torrid corner and was the outsanding fielder of the game.

At least one hundred and twenty-five couples danced at the Pirate's Den, on the shore of Lake Pennesseewassee, Tuesday evening. This was a benefit for the Norway Country Club, and the Den was placed at the disposal of the patrons. Excellent music was furnished by the Mohawk Collegians, the regular dance team for the Pirate's Den. Many summer campers and guests in Norway and surrounding towns enjoyed the sport along with club members and friends.

ACCEPTS CALL

Rev. Conard Rheiner of Philadelphia, Pa., has accepted the call to become pastor of the First Universalist Church. He will begin his pastorate here the first of September.

Rev. and Mrs. Marcus Carroll of Randolph, Mass., are spending a vacation at Papoose Pond in Waterford.

Norway Grange will hold a food sale, Saturday afternoon at 3:30 daylight time, on the Universalist lawn. Mrs. Ada Cox is chairman of the committee, assisted by Mrs. Edith Buck. Members making contributions are asked to have the food there by 3 o'clock prompt. If the afternoon is stormy, the sale will be held at Grange Hall.

The August meeting of the Norway Farm Bureau, ladies' division, will be canceled as the date is the day previous to the County Field Day. The September meeting scheduled for the 16th, will be a combination meeting, covering the projects of both the August and September work, Slip Covers and End Tables. At that time, there will be a picnic dinner, to give more time to the work in hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tucker and daughter, Miss Ruth Tucker of Warren, Mass., were recent guests of Philip F. Stone. Mr. Tucker is a hardware dealer and while in Norway renewed acquaintance with L. M. Country Club Well

Below Lake Level, But No Water

After drilling 550 feet on the Norway Country Club hill-top without finding water in any volume, the Bangor Well Drilling Corporation has suspended operations for a time and located the outfit at South Woodstock. On their return, another spot will be selected on the Country Club lot.

For two months, workmen have labored with the drilling equipment to fulfill a guarantee to furnish a constant supply of water, sufficient for sprinkling the new golf course and for other purposes. A vein was located with a crotched twig from a witch hazel tree, but this spot was not considered by the contractors.

After drilling one hundred feet into the granite hill, a vein was tapped that gave a flow of five gallons a minute. This was not sufficient, and work proceeded for greater results. When down several hundred feet, the rope cable parted and some time was lost recovering the heavy drill.

The climax came on Friday, when dynamite was exploded in the hole at the one hundred foot level to increase the flow at that point. The blast filled the workings with debris and caused the loss of the drill, together with a section of the cable, being a loss of several hundred dollars.

At present the hole is below the level of Lake Pennesseewassee and other bodies of water in this territory, but the drillers are confident the project will eventually be a success from the water standpoint. A fixed price clears the Country Club, but the contractors appear to be harnessed to a dead horse.

The invitation of Mrs. Mamie Twitchell to meet for supper at her home on Fore street, Sept. 16, was accepted. Mrs. Bowser will join with Mrs. Twitchell as hostess.

The remainder of the evening was enjoyed in a social way, there being no formal program.

Past Chiefs present were Mrs. Caroline Smith, Mrs. Addie Thurston, Mrs. Ida Everett, Mrs. Alosia Witham, Mrs. Mary Lewis, Mrs. Sadie Bowser, Mrs. Mary Kimball, the five new members and the hostesses. Holden and Charles Bumpus of Oxford and Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey of Norway.

LIKE WHISTLER, SEITZ HAS A FRIEND

Don C. Seitz, Cos Cob, learning a Bridgport newspaper reported a meeting of Connecticut Democratic Committee there Thursday as mentioning him as a possible Democratic for Governor, told the News and Graphic that, like Whistler, the painter, he might have a friend "whose name he does not recall." Mr. Seitz said he would work for his party this fall if opportunity presented itself, although he realized that the Republicans had largely bought up the Democrats here in the last ten years. The same paper says:

Don Seitz for Governor

The suggestion of Don Seitz for governor on the Democratic ticket sounds good. On being informed of such a possibility is in the air and that his name had been mentioned in such connection at a recent Democratic gathering, Don recalled the incident of Whistler and whistled, "I may have a friend, but his name I do not recall." But contemplate the psychological effect on the weary and waning remnants of the Democratic party in Connecticut, of Don's hat sailing into the ring. What a fluttering and scrambling would ensue in the lounging room of the "What's the use club?" Seitz vs. Levitt. Could any combination offer the promise of a more exhilarating campaign?

KIWANIS NEWS

Obituary

S. Bion Pike

S. Bion Pike died suddenly at his home on Pike Hill, August 7. He was about his farm work as usual that morning and the end came with only brief warning. Having suffered from heart trouble a few years, he had not been able to do much hard work.

Mr. Pike was the son of Franklin T. and Sarah M. Whitehouse Pike, and had always lived on the farm where he was born Aug. 17, 1867. He married Miss Ina French of Norway. He was a member of Norway Lodge I. O. O. F.

His ancestors were among the early settlers of Norway.

He is survived by his widow, one brother, Clarence B. Pike, who lives in Mansfield, Mass., and one sister, Mrs. Kate Bradbury, of Norway.

Services were held Sunday at 2 p. m., at Spiller's Funeral Home, attended by Rev. O. E. Bryant of Clinton, N. C. The bearers were Harry Goodwin, Archie Goodwin, U. S. G. Abbott and Arthur Robbins. Interment was at Norway Pine Grove Cemetery.

ENTERTAINING FOR A MEDICINE MAN

Frederick Marshall Davis of Lewiston, formerly of Norway, is barnstorming with a medicine vender and writes interestingly about his travels as pitchman and entertainer. Here is Fred's description of the life with Dr. A. Millett of Portland:

"I left the yacht painting job to tour Maine and New Hampshire with Dr. Millett of Portland.

"The doctor sings, sells medicine, saves lives, performs miracles and cures ills of long standing. Places visited last week were Augusta, Waterville, Strong, Phillips, Madison, Bingham and Jackman, stopped at Bangor last Monday on way through Aroostook County and points along the Kennebec valley and the Canadian border. I advertise the Vega banjo and have a violin as a present, on board the car, that is two hundred and fourteen years old, that the doctor waits me to play in the South with him this winter. We take a camera along that helps out to illustrate notes in writing.

"We made a pitch at Bingham close by the Wyman power dam that is now being made, just above the town on the Kennebec river. The great job goes on systematically, night and day. Bright lights overhead turn the night time into day and the rays tell you that something big is being done while an illumination reaches far into the sky that can be plainly seen from any point many miles away. I looked at small islands in the river, that with others, must soon say goodbye to sunshine and rain for a long time to come, perhaps forever.

New highways are being built far up from the river, hills are already stripped of their timber growth, sets of buildings laid low and farms prepared to be entirely submerged by this mighty project of a storage basin. A short space of time was taken at the dam, while the examining doctor, Mr. Hayes, told me to look around and act my own pleasure.

It had been twenty-nine years since I crossed the St. Lawrence at Montreal and my sixty-five mile ride from Fort Kent to Grand Falls along the valley of the St. John's River, yesterday, brought back memories of Canadian waters that I viewed in the dear long ago.

"Today, Aug. 9, looking at the St. Johns River from its banks along the Canadian border, its dark waters move lazily along, denoting great depth. Many small villages are seen along the river valley, where industries are common, also wonderful spacious, well laid out farms. The people raise plenty, their tables teem with abundant food products.

Today at Van Buran, chain stores are seen, many horses are used along the way. Flour mills are near at hand and wheat is raised here in abundance. As a country, Canada is delightful. It is plain that God did not forget to dress up this part of the universe.

VAN ARNAM'S MINSTRELS COMING IN BIG TENT

John R. Van Arnam's big minstrels will be seen in South Paris and Norway this year in their new beautiful tent theatre, said to be the finest in America. They will play on the fair grounds for one night only, Saturday, August 16. The company is much larger than before, carrying now 40 people and a lot of novelties never before seen with this organization. Reserved seats are now on sale at Stone's drug store, Norway, and Howard's drug store, South Paris.

Van Arnam's Minstrels was built with the idea of making our patrons forget their troubles and have an evening of clean, wholesome entertainment. The comedy is the most important feature of minstrelsy, hence our special effort to present a collection of the best and brightest commedians of the day. True comedy is a born trait, hence we aim to employ natural comedians. We have this year for our premier, Slipfoot Clifton, "The Boy from the Blue Grass", a singing and dancing comedian par excellence, who also plays the largest saxaphone made. Billy Henderson, "The Georgia Sunflower" needs no introduction, he made you laugh last year and will bring a new budget of witty sayings and Tropical songs.

Al "Weedy" Pinard and Rodney Roberts will entertain you with real black fast wit and some of the fastest trick dancing you ever saw. And a host of new faces this year. There will be a big street parade at noon in both towns.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

F. O. Merrill, a salesman for the Neidich Process Company of Burlington, N. J., manufacturers of carbon papers and typewriter ribbons, called in Thursday. He is spending his vacation in Maine and taking orders. He met friends here from Massachusetts and journeyed to Gorham, N. H.

We have been printing posters for Mrs. Dana M. Stuart of Harrison, for the Ninth Annual Antique Auction Sale which will be held at the residence of the late Dana M. Stuart, on Friday, August 22, a 9:30, a. m., standard time. Frank Bryer will be the auctioneer. The sale includes a lot of fine antiques. See ad in this issue.

D. M. French of the McLellan Packing Co. at Pittsfield, N. H., reports sweet corn as looking fine in that section. He has six hundred acres growing for their factory and expects to put up a million and a half cans. We recently saw Mr. French at the Washington House at Pittsfield. He is hale and hearty and hopes to visit Norway before their busy season commences.

R. E. Small of South Paris was in, Saturday, and placed an ad in this issue, telling of the band concert which will be held in Norway next Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5, probably at Witherell Park, under the auspices of the Standard Oil Co., of New York. The Norway-Paris Band will furnish the music. The concert is given, introducing Socony Banner Gasoline. See ad.

Julius Fuller of Oxford called Thursday morning and renewed his subscription; said he was nearly 100 this morning (but we know he was fooling and not quite that age); he also said he was nearly blind, but must have the Advertiser just the same. Said when he was in town he always comes in to sass F. W. Sanborn. We invited him to come again as Mr. Sanborn was in New Hampshire for a few days.

A photograph from Walter J. Glidden, in Sao Paulo, Brazil, S. A., to Fisherman Fred, showing the young heir, 'Buddy" Glidden, casting a fly in the turbulent waters. The stream looks inviting and productive of anything except trout, the great attraction to Middle Dam and Moosehead Lake. Mr. Glidden, formerly of Norway, is superintendent of the shoe manufacturing concern, Companhia Calcado Clark, in Sao Paulo. According to the cut on the business envelope, the building covers several acres and is a combination of tannery and factory.

Mrs. Alma Pendexter Hayden writes: "I think it is 53 years ago this month that I first came to Norway to teach Latin, French and German in the high school. In those days the fall term began a little earlier than has been the custom since then. Fifty-three years is a long time, but I still remember the boys and girls of that day, and those who came after. My address is 256 Thurston Road, Rochester, N. Y., where I expect to remain for the remaining years of my life. Shall think of you all at reunion, but do not expect ever to be with you again. Glad of the letters I still receive from my dear pupils."

Col. Bill Bates, advance agent for the John R. Van Arnam's Minstrels, was in, Saturday, and placed advertising for this issue. The show will appear on the fair grounds the evening of August 16, in a canvas theatre that will seat about 1,000 persons. Van's portable electric light plant illuminates the grounds and theatre also furnishes special effects for the acts. Bill states that the show will arrive early with a fleet of motor trucks, trailers and pullmans, being one of the best gas propelled outfits on the road. The show is well known in this territory and needs no boosting, for its high quality during past years is still maintained under the progressive management of Van, a former football star and coach.

Rev. Carl S. Weist of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who is spending the summer at North Lovell, in a recent letter says:

"I am sending you "To Speckled Mountain," a bit of verse by the writer, published in The Congregationalist several weeks ago. It has just occurred to me that the poem might be of interest to your readers since Speckled Mountain rises quickly from the north end of Kezar Lake, where many readers live.

"You may remember me as a caller at your office one day last August when I subscribed for your interesting paper. I am pastor of "The Community Church at the Circle" (formerly First Congregational) at Mount Vernon, New York.

"Mrs. Weist and I have become quite attached to Norway in the last few years. We do much of our shopping there, root for your baseball team, enjoy your people and read your paper with avidity. Norway is an enterprising little city, we think."

Poem referred to appears in this week's Advertiser.

S. H. Burnham of Lincoln, Neb., has this to say regarding fish and fishing in Maine. Also a word about golfing:

"You know I don't think there is any fish in the world like New England trout. I remember once when Sumner, Herman Judkins, Herm Horne and I went fishing up somewhere and got lost in the woods. We traveled all one afternoon and finally gave it up, and agreed that we were absolutely lost and would probably come out of the woods fifty miles from where we went in. About sunset we came out, not ten rods from where we went in. Sumner had a compass on his watch chain, but for the first time in all the years he used it, it didn't function. We finally reached home about ten o'clock that night. I think that was about the last fishing trip I ever took in Maine."

"I notice, by the way, that you have a golf course in Norway. You know I was a crank on golf for many years, and started the game here in this town. I have played in the different cities in this country and at St. Andrews in Scotland, at London and at Versailles, but I had to give it up about fifteen years ago. I believe, though, I got as much fun out of baseball and golf as any man living. Possibly those athletic exercises have helped me to be a much older man than I ever expected to be. I don't think I could do much playing short stop now."

Mr. Burnham is in his 83rd year, having left Norway some over 50 years ago. At one time he practiced law here with the late H. M. Bearce as a partner.

Saco Valley United Parish

Ministering to Lovell, Fryeburg Harbor, North, West and Center Fryeburg, Stow, Union Hill and Toll Bridge

The old Knight place was very much alive on Wednesday when the North Fryeburg Willing Workers held their lawn party and sale of work. A splendid number partook of the chicken supper. Young folk as well as a few older fellows played wild games of volley ball, then as darkness fell, all adjourned to the side of the house where an informal concert and singsong was held. In this Miss Hill gave a splendid display with Indian Clubs; Mrs. Pavy gave two readings and J. C. Kilgour Jr., favored with solos. Next day the Lovell Ladies' Aid had a successful supper and sale of work at the Masonic Hall and this was followed by a splendid display of moving pictures shown by Mr. Harrison of the C. N. R. office, Portland.

At the evening service at the Harbor on Sunday, Miss Hester Charles was unanimously chosen as president and Miss Lucia Guptill as first vice president (devotional) of the Epworth League, on account of the leaving of Mrs. Elmer Bradley.

The combined ladies' aids of the parish will serve coffee, doughnuts, hot dogs, soft drinks and ice cream to supplement the basket lunches everybody is asked to bring. In the evening, the program will include the operetta "The Old Man of the Mountain" given by the Indian Acres Boys' Camp, which will be presented at the new open-air theatre at the camp, instead of in front of the grand stand, as previously announced.

KEZAR FALLS

Church Services—L. M. R. C. Held Picnic—Kiwanis Notes.

Rev. Mr. Worster of Portsmouth, N. H., suplied in the M. E. church last Sunday. His subject was "Enthusiasm" and the four C's, "Courage, Consecration, Constancy and Conviction". The singing was good and supplemented with a solo sung by Miss Margaret Chellis, "O May My Walk be Close with God".

The L. M. R. C. and guests went on their annual picnic, Wednesday, Aug. 6th. Thirty-seven all told. They visited the towns of Fryeburg and Bridgton, arriving at the end of their goal, which was Proctor's Inn, about eleven o'clock, where they found amusement enough until two o'clock, the dinner hour. They all enjoyed themselves immensely. Given a lovely day, congenial companionship and a dinner at Proctor's Inn, left nothing to wish for and old Father Time could jot it down in his calendar as a "perfect day, well spent".

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Ames were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Norton, Tuesday of last week.

The Ladies' Circle met on the ball grounds last week and enjoyed a picnic lunch.

Monday evening, August 4th, the Kezar Falls Kiwanians owned Hotel Malvern for the time being. Kiwanian Arthur Wiggin presided at the piano, and music and singing were in full accord. Kiwanis singing must be heard to be described, it is so soulfully, whole hearted, that one member after another is captivated outside of himself and singing full blast with the rest of the crowd. Dull care is laid away. There is no place for it. Business is transacted between lapses of melody.

Rev. Lewis Jones of Limerick took advantage of such a lapse and delivered his fine address to an interested audience. At its close the fellow feeling grew strong within him and he spoke of his beloved country, Little Wales, her mountains with their wealth of legend, of heather and gorse, and last, but not least, her mines, and favored the attentive brethren with songs of his native land in his native tongue, accompanying himself the while on the piano. It was an exceedingly pleasant evening and one long to be remembered.

The ladies of Calvary Community Church served lunches in a booth on the common and the Legion Auxiliary sold candies and jewelry. Beano games and drinks, lunches, etc., were also numerous. Nearly every night for the week a good crowd was present and dancing in the street was enjoyed two evenings, with music by Harl True's Orchestra, of Norway.

The parade was excellent, with many floats and prettily decorated cars, besides horse-back riders and bicycles, and a farm wagon and oxen, driven by Elmer Thomes. TO SPECKLED MOUNTAIN

By Carl S. Weist

You do not rise so very high—
In fact, you seem to fear the sky,
Spread out along the earth quite low,
Like buildings on the farms below.
And yet you are a mountain, too.
You have your ledges; misty blue
Ravines that pierce steep, wooded sides;
Rough shoulders which reflect the tides
Of sun and cloud that ebb and flow
Unceasingly across your brow;
Cold brooks that leap from snow and rain
To turn mill wheels far down the plain.
You have these things, and still I sigh
To think how many pass you by.
You ride, untenanted, the years
Overshadowed by your loftier peers.
The prototype of men are you,
Who live their days the long years through
And never mount so very high,
But do their work beneath the sky
Of public plaudit and acclaim,
Who never find the way to fame.
Unnoticed by their loftier peers
They water gardens with their tears;
With labor's voice build undertones
Which others use as stepping-stones
To wealth and ease, to power and name,
Nor ever question whence they came.
O lonely Mount! divinely strange,
The lowest summit in your range,
But highest in God's earthly plan:
You cheer the common run of man.

Chautauqua closed on Monday. The guarantors had so much to pay this year they did not deem it best to sign up at present for another year. Somehow it seems as if Chautauqua had become a part of our community program and as if in the first years of its coming, we could not give it up.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lyman of Watertown, Mass., were guests of his aunt, Mrs. Martha P. Perry, for two days the first of last week. Now she is entertaining Edgar Sargent and Mrs. Sargent, his mother, from Dorchester, Mass., and her niece, Miss Fannie Lyman, and chauffeur of Watertown, Mass.

Our community was greatly saddened on Friday when they heard of W. W. Abbott's attack that brought on a shock, which rendered his left side helpless and his speech affected. He has been in very poor health for years, but for the past six months he has been struggling to keep up.

Robbins Plummer has been in bed for the past week from high blood pressure. He is slowly improving.

Miss Maude B. Atherton has returned to the Providence Hospital in Providence, R. I. She motored to Portland with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Warren on Sunday, spending that night with the Warrens. She was met in Boston by Miss Gertrude Miller, who accompanied her to Providence.

Lake Thompson United Parish

What promises to become one of the most active and most effective of church endeavors yet to be attempted in this section of the state has for its inspiration the recent formation of the Lake Thompson United Parish. Combining the East Otisfield Baptist church and Spurr's Corner Congregational church into the united body, and covering, for the present time, the area of Otisfield and its territories, South Otisfield and the Otisfield Gore, the United Parish stands ready to begin its activities to invite the communities of Oxford, Casco, Bolsters Mills and Welchville to join hands with Otisfield in the creation of a still larger united parish.

The Lake Thompson United Parish movement, started in June of this year, has been under the direction of the Rev. Harry McIntire, pastor of the new United Parish. It is to his indefatigable efforts, as well as to those of the public spirited and religious persons of Otisfield that such a parish has become a glorious reality. That the church is receiving financial support as well is revealed in the report, made public last Tuesday night, of the Every Member Canvass Drive, that of the $1500 goal set for the year's activities, $1400 had already been raised out of a population of a mere 539 persons, with the prospects excellent for going "over the top" before the end of the drive.

"It is our intention to do a great work and a much needed work," commented Rev. McIntire. "While of course, we shall concentrate on the religious needs of the community's welfare, we shall not overlook the community's physical, social and moral needs.

"To interest the young people in the church, there must be a social program in keeping with the dignity of the church and yet interesting enough to draw the girls and boys of the community. We plan to have song festivals and timely lectures. We plan, too, to keep the health of our parish members above par. In this direction we shall naturally do our greatest work among the children. We hope to have a visiting physician and visiting dentist examine the children for any possible physical defects such as decayed teeth, diseased tonsils and adenolds. Where it is not possible for the parents to have such defects corrected because of financial inability, we hope to be in such a financial position a little later on to take care of the health of those little children.

A committee has already been appointed with authority to organize and promote a daily Vacation Bible School, where the children of the community between five and thirteen years of age will be given religious instruction.

The important steps, historically speaking that have led to the formation of the Lake Thompson United Parish, may be grouped in this fashion: At a meeting at which Rev. Wilbur I. Bull of the Oxford County Larger Parish was present, the first committee was appointed to draw up the constitution and by-laws of the newly formed Lake Thompson United Parish. S. D. Nutting of Otisfield served as chairman, Gardner Cole of Casco, Ernest Greenleaf of East Otisfield, and Rev. Paul Walker of Oxford constituted the other members of the committee. Rev. Bull met with the members and gave his assistance. The Constitution and By-Laws were subsequently voted upon and accepted by the two parishes of Otisfield, who then proceeded with the detail of the organization.

On Tuesday night, August 5, the parishioners of the East Otisfield Baptist church and Spurr's Corner Congregational church met and elected officers and members of the Council. The officers are:

Pres.—S. D. Nutting.
V. Pres.—Ernest Greenleaf.
Financial Secretary—Alice Lamb.
Secretary—Willard Brett.

Other members of the Council include Rev. Willard H. Palmer, a member-at-large, representing the Congregational Board, Mrs. Charles Mitchell, George B. Turner of Portland, who was elected auditor, and Harry W. McIntire, pastor of the Parish.

In electing the Council, two members were chosen from each of the two churches, one member from each outlying district, and one member-at-large, representing each denomination.

As its first act, the Council instructed the pastor, Rev. McIntire, to proceed with the issuance of church calendars for each Sunday, similar to the procedure adopted in city churches. A finance committee was also appointed consisting of Ernest Greenleaf, chairman, Willard Brett and Mrs. Charles Mitchell.

The next Council meeting of the Lake Thompson United Parish will be held on Tuesday, September 2, when a supper will be served. An invitation has been extended to the Oxford churches to attend this meeting.

Every advantage Firestone has in world wide resources—buying rubber and cotton at the lowest prices—is put right back of us for the benefit of our customers. Result—you get more in value for less in price. The name "FIRESTONE" on every tire is the pledge of the manufacturer that the tire you buy is the best you can obtain for the price you pay.

Chas. G. Jenness, ex-editor and newspaper man, now sightseeing in Europe, sends postal and writes: "Had a swim in the Black Sea. Regards from the land of the Turks, where common workers get 50 cents a day and $50.00 per months is a fine position."

Under date of July 29, Miss Elva Dorr writes: Nearly lost my mind over the beauty of the Rhine—old castles, hills, 1,000 feet to 3,000, bluffs, sheer rock—hills cultivated to the top, patches of green, gray, yellow, mosaic-like. Went through old fort 500 years old, where our army was for four years—glorious panorama from that bluff, also horse chestnut trees, ash, locust, elms along the way up the drive and in fact I see these trees everywhere on the continent. This is our first hilly country. England, Holland are flat. We are going now to ride on the Rhine as far as Wiesbaden. Black Forest tomorrow. Germany best scenery so far. Flowers and trees all over Europe. Why don't we beautify our village?

From Wiesbaden, she says: "In talking to a "common sense" looking man in the lobby, he said: "I've been to Norway, I motored to Moose Lake, Sebago, Lovell, Denmark. I went to the newspaper office and told the man he sent us a good teacher down to Rhode Island." What does that mean? He said 'twas a number of years ago. Doesn't that beat all—to land here and right in the lobby to meet some one who had been to Norway! Small world.

"Such elegance here—if this is 'Tourist' what is 1st class? I've private bath, walnut doors, two telephones, stained glass windows, chaise longue, turkish rugs, etc., etc., built in 1857, delicious food, much better than England, heavenly scenery. Of course Wiesbaden and Baden-Baden are spas-watering places. Parlors, drawing rooms—oh!

"Sailed down the Rhine yesterday from 11-6 p. m.—never did see such scenery at every turn. Saw U. S. flag over one castle, found out it belonged to Rhinelanders of N. J. Then the party of us, twenty, awoke and everything was United States till I hushed 'em up—a Scotch intellectual chatted to us—exchanged playful bandinage about dollars and beans, etc. Our Hudson is lovely, but not half so as Rhine. We must be honest—Germany is lovely—food, scenery, courteousness. I wish Americans were not so abrupt and I wish our women wouldn't smoke so much.

Mrs. Bion Brown and infant daughter, Winnifred Agnes, who have been at the home of Mrs. Stanley, returned to their home, Friday.

Ethel May Shorey and her company of players filled the Association Hall, Monday evening, presenting the comedy drama, entitled "To the Highest Bidder". Four rattling good acts kept the audience in continuous laughter. The funny fellow, Fred S. Campbell, made his usual hit in a conversational specialty, while the orchestra in a vocal and instrumental novelty responded to four curtain calls. Hazel E. Roswell in eccentric and acrobatic dances, was also a favorite. This was the third appearance of the company this season with an audience which has increased from some three hundred to a near capacity house. The next offering on Aug. 25, will be a modern version of East Lynn.

The advanced forces have reached the foot of Clark hill near the cement bridge over Stony Brook and making the Hebron road into an automobile highway is progressing. Many familiar shade trees on the hill have been cut down. One landmork will be missed, the old pine that stood at the corner of the Burnell property for at least sixty-one years. The stump showed seventy-five rings. Cutting away two banks has changed appearances and brought sighs of regret from some old time residents.

Tamarack Talk

Padraic Colum

Padraic Colum's talk at the Silver Mine Guild was of course entirely too short for most of us and we would like to have him read more out of his own verse as well as from that of other poets of Erin.

At first his statement that the engineer type of mind predominates among the youth of Ireland struck a cord of disappointment in our poetry-loving soul. But with the work of such poets as Austin Clark, Francis Higgins, Monk Gibbon, and Oliver Gogarty presented by Mr. Colum, the original fear was banished, and we got lost in the rhythms of the leading Irish poets.

New Canaan's Irish poet made very clear the background of tradition, which is enmeshed in the spirit of the two opposing trends in present-day Irish poetry. The Gaelic tradition with its stress on assonance and rhythm, rather than on mere rhyme, forms the basis for the movement led by Austin Clarke. This poet drawing from mostly academic sources, executes the remarkable in carrying over the Gaelic forms and themes into English verse. Austin Clarke assuredly does go far to "take the clapper out of the bell in rhyme", which is what the Gaelic movement is aiming to accomplish.

"The Planter's Daughter" was one of this poet's works that Mr. Colum read as an example of Clarke. It contained the spirit of the 17th and 18th century Gaelic.

Francis Higgins' poems come from the old folk songs and ballads handed down through the unwritten Love Songs of Connaught. Readings from some of Higgins' showed the difference between him and Clarke, though both are of the Gaelic tradition.

The Gaelic urge in Ireland, fostered by the Government's efforts to make the Gaelic the second language of the land, has brought a reaction, and an Anglo-Irish tradition in poetry is the result. The Anglo-Irish dates from the 13th century Norman invasion of England, which holds a particular heritage for Ireland, they say. This movement is essentially Nationalistic, but the verse is all written in English.

Of the Anglo-Irish tradition Monk Gibbon is the most quiet, though most prominent. Do you remember the poem "Brief Blossoming" by Frances Frost in last week's column? "The Crabtree" by Gibbon, which Mr. Colum read recalled it. Gibbon's is more complete, and carries to a fuller degree what Frances Frost only hints on in a few beautiful lines. In "The Crabtree" (especially through Mr. Colum's reading of it) you get an intense picture of the problems of a tree. And this in rhythms that swing with sharp description.

Assonant verse in Irish poetry is but a phase in the poetry of his native land, Mr. Colum believes, and because it is not embodied in the main characteristics of the language it can never become really a permanent part of the poetic use of that language.

Some of the tendencies in our own country appear of the same nature. There are many forms now prevalent in America that will not live as a part of the lasting language of poetry, but each phase has its part in formulating the complete whole of the literature. And so the stress on assonance in Irish poetry, imposing no rigors of form save rhythm and use of assonant syllables, helps to round out the poetic output of Ireland.

We are going to be more interested in Padraic Colum from now on, and not simply because he is in our midst, but because he is essentially a poet. Those of us who heard him read his "The Tin Whistle Player" know that (if we did not know it before). For after much urging, his genuine modesty gave way to some of us greedy Silver Miners and Mr. Colum gave the poem and received the much deserved applause with equal taciturnity.

The poet spoke his composition beautifully and what more can one ask than for the poet himself to verbally tell what he has already so beautifully written? We could really see and hear the old man with his whistle and feel his thoughts being expressed through the music to be made articulate by the poet.

So we didn't get enough by any means! There was to have been something on Hart Crane this week. Still, "The Bridge" ought to live another week!

And now, let's bend our thoughts on Hart Crane and see if perchance he doesn't make more noise than those other things seem to create.

CHAPTER XIII

The Young Folks Come to the Front

Bessie much enjoyed her ride with Tom to Alderburg. He called her attention to the places where he stayed the first night of his hike; where the vicious dog had attacked him, and the path leading to the spring where the three tramps planned breaking into Mr. Benton's clothing store. No one was in sight as they passed the Benton place and Tom concluded that Charley had gone down town, and he went on to his boarding place, where Bessie was so warmly received by Betty and her mother, that she felt that she was to be among very good friends. Bob was at the express office, where he had kept everything in order, waiting for Tom's arrival. After Tom had deposited in the house, Bessie's effects and his own, which he had brought from home, he drove to the owner of the place desired for Mrs. Gordon and secured it for her, then hunted up Lew Cushman, the truckman, and engaged him to go to Lakeport on Wednesday following. Joe and her and her goods and finally landed my at the bank, deposited the $500 check his father had given him for Bessie's expenses, and delivered Charley's message over to him.

"Glad to see you back, old man!" Charley interrupted, as Tom was expressing his thanks—"Don't want any beating quets for the car. See you and your little beauty of a sister later." and with this he went back into the bank.

Bob was impatient for Tom to come and relieve him so that he could go to the house. When Tom had finally reached the express office he flew away to see the newcomer, who was to mean so much to him, as associate and schoolmate. He was disappointed at not finding her with his mother or Betty. She was upstairs in her room. He thought that Betty might guy him if he asked her any questions about Bessie, so he inquired of his mother who was in the kitchen, how the new addition to the family looked, and she replied that Bessie was a real little beauty. Then he wanted to know if she was going to stay upstairs till dinner time. She didn't know she said, but would ascertain and stepping to the foot of the stairs, she called: "Bessie!" The door to the newcomer's room opened and a sweet musical voice answered: "Am I wanted, Mrs. Morton?"

"Yes, there is someone down here who is so impatient to see you that he can't wait till dinner time."

"Oh, then I'll come right down."

On her appearance downstairs, Bob grasped her hand in both of his saying, "I'm Bob. Am awful glad to know you. School begins tomorrow and I hope you'll be in my classes. We'll have awful good times together."

After some commonplace talk between them she said: "It will be fine to be in your classes. Then we can get our lessons together. But you must excuse me now, to go back to my room." And thus the little miss was fully introduced into a new, but temporary home. Bob went to the express office to talk with Tom: "She's a little beauty, Tom, ever and ever so much more than the picture you have," he declared.

"You'll get along together nicely, I think, but don't tell her that she is a little Venus, or show your admiration too much, Bob, or you will frighten her and then she won't be so companionable, as she otherwise would be," replied Tom.

"I savvy, Tom. I guess I won't scare her. I'll try not to, but I'm awfully glad she's come."

The next day the village schools opened. Bob and Bessie came home at noon to report that they were in the same classes, in Miss Porter's department, and he declared that he shouldn't try to get ahead of her, but to keep along with her if he could.

Bessie confided to Tom that Bob was a fine boy, and very attentive to her, and Tom casually remarked that this would wear off as they became better acquainted. To this she said:

"I hope it won't all wear off," at which Tom laughed, and she thereupon boxed his ears and then kissed him.

In the same classes with Bob and Bessie were Victor Whiting, son of lawyer Whiting, Bert Clark, Mary Randolph, the town magistrate's daughter and Katy Long, the hardware merchant's daughter. These four were very bright and smart scholars, and it was quite questionable whether Bob and Bessie could maintain the leadership, which they anticipated in their classes. We shall have occasion to refer to them several times in the progress of this story.

BOB AND BES

Betty found Bessie an apt pupil in music. She gave her two lessons a week. Bessie had a natural taste for music as Tom had, and a sweet rich alto voice for singing, and learned easily and rapidly.

Lew Cushman went to Lakeport and brought the Gordon family and their household effects to their new home. As soon as they were fairly settled Jim ran to the express office and almost burst in the door in his eagerness, shouting: "Hullo Tom, I'm here. Gee! I've had a big ride. We run over a savage dog that came out of a yard back on the road, barking and growling at us and killed him. A man came out of the house and howled and shook his fist at Mr. Cushman, but he drove right along and paid no attention to what the man said."

"Good," said Tom, "that must be the dog that bit me."

"Well," said Jim, "he won't bite any more people who go by that place."

"How do you like your new home, Jim?" inquired Tom.

"Great, and mother does, too. One of Mr. Cushman's neighbors has a job for her, cleaning house for his wife, who has a small child and isn't very well. He says she will find all the work here that she can do, and I can run on errands and do little jobs when not in school."

"Yes, you can do that. School commenced yesterday, but I will go with you tomorrow and see the teacher. Bessie

These four were very bright and smart scholars, and it was quite questionable whether Bob and Bessie could maintain the leadership, which they anticipated in their classes. We shall have occasion to refer to them several times in the pro-gress of this story.

MISS CORA GARDNER

Jim found his entry into the society of the boys of his age a pleasant one for a new scholar in a strange place. The boys had been in force at the school building when Tom went there with him. Tom, who had shot a burglar, was a won-derful person in their eyes, and the fact that he took an interest in Jim was a suf-ficient reason with them to consider him of some importance and he came to be called Tom's boy and was treated well by all the youngsters of the village.

One evening at the express office Jim was telling Bob for the second time about his ride from Lakeport to Alderburg with Mr. Cushman, the truckman, and how they had run over and killed the vicious dog that bit Tom, and the howling and curses of the owner, when Charley came in. After listening awhile to Jim's colorful and enthusiastic narrative, he said: "That's some boy you have got over here from Lakeport, Tom."

Tom: "Yes, he is rather, Charley. No noncompus to him, you bet."

Jim: "What's that Tom?"

Tom: "Oh, a booby. You know what that means don't you?"

Jim: "Yes, a chap like Gabe Gibbs."

Bob: "What about him, Jim?"

Jim: "Oh he's a regular dunderhead. Our teacher asked him one time what hair spelt, and he said he didn't know. Then she said: 'What have you got on your head, Gabe?' 'Don't know,' he answered, 'suthin that bites.'" A roar of laughter followed.

Charley: "They can't beat that, Tom, with any boy of his age here. I'll bet on him every time after this."

Tom: "Say, Charley, I'm giving Bob some points in handling the drum sticks. I'd like to find a couple of other boys besides he and Jim, who would make expert drummers and organize a corps with Bob as leader. Do you know of any boys that would fill the bill?"

Charley: "No, I don't, Tom, but the idea is a capital one and if you can make it work it will take the younger part of the town by storm.?"

BOB AND BESSIE

Betty found Bessie an apt pupil in music. She gave her two lessons a week. Bessie had a natural taste for music as Tom had, and a sweet rich alto voice for singing, and learned easily and rapidly.

Lew Cushman went to Lakeport and brought the Gordon family and their household effects to their new home. As soon as they were fairly settled Jim ran to the express office and almost burst in the door in his eagerness, shouting: "Hullo Tom, I'm here. Gee! I've had a big ride. We run over a savage dog that came out of a yard back on the road, barking and growling at us and killed him. A man came out of the house and howled and shook his fist at Mr. Cushman, but he drove right along and paid no attention to what the man said."

"Yes, you can do that. School com-menced yesterday, but I will go with you tomorrow and see the teacher. Bessie and Bob are in the same class in Miss Emma Porter's school, but you, I guess, will be in Miss Cora Gardner's depart-ment, which is a grade lower. And I want to impress upon your mind that you are in a new place and will be thrown into companionship with all classes of children. You should pay strict atten-tion to your duties; avoid all conten-tions and quarrels, and keep a close mouth about Lakeport people and us. Let them find out what we are by how we live, and what we shall do here."

"I savvy Tom—yer bet yer boots. I haven't been with yer for nothing all this time."

When Bob got home from school he found Jim with Tom, and each boy at once was favorably impressed with the other. Tom said to Bob that he should expect him to look out for Jim when around the school playing grounds and where the boys congregated and he prom-ised to do so.

The next morning Tom took his prote-ge to Miss Gardner's school. She knew the local hero by sight and finding him interested in a boy likely to be one of her pupils, told Tom that she would find out through the course of the day whether he belonged in her department. She did so and that Jim's place was in her school. She declared that he was very well be-haved and a bright boy. In his classes was a pretty little miss by the name of Alice Marian Weston. She was a year younger than Jim, but the very smartest one among them and he came to like her very much and strove to keep up with her in their studies.

Jim, in school as has been stated, was a model pupil. He soon found out that he had to study pretty hard to keep up with little Miss Weston. What with his assisting Tom; working for his mother; doing little jobs that came in his way, and taking exercises in drumming, he realized that he had no more time to de-vote to his lessons and some recreation than he needed. But he was a bright boy, learned quickly and immensely en-joyed his new situation. Nothing he did, consequently, was distasteful or onerous to him. Indeed no boy of his age and circumstances could have been happier than Jim was. He became very partial and considerate towards his classmate, little Miss Weston.

One noon hour it looked so much like rain that Mrs. Gordon urged her son to take the umbrella to school with him, but he demurred, saying it was such a big one that the scholars would laugh at him for carrying it to school when it didn't rain and they had not brought any themselves. She stepped to the door and finding the sky overcast with thick clouds and a strong southeast wind blow-ing, she told Jim he had better take the umbrella for she felt sure it would rain before school was let out. Accustomed to obey his mother like the dutiful child he was, Jim said no more, but on his way to the schoolhouse, he left the um-brella at the express office, where he could get it by a few rods run in the event of his actually needing it. Thus youngsters learn to avoid when seeming to obey ex-plicit instructions.

Mrs. Gordon knew too much about a strong southeast wind with thick clouds obscuring the sun and sky to be mistak-en about the near approach of rain, and when Miss Cora Gardner dismissed her scholars at four o'clock, it was raining. The parents of some of the pupils went and took their children home. Little Miss Weston's father, Mr. Merritt Weston, was the chief clerk in a dry goods store up town and her mother had an ill turn that day, so there was no one to go to the schoolhouse for her. This was Jim's opportunity to show a real interest in the little beauty. He told her that he had a big umbrella at the express office, and would go and get it and take her home. She began to say that she didn't want him to get wet for her, but he darted away on the run before she had time to complete what she started to say, and soon returned with the umbrella. The teacher was as wise about the weather as Mrs. Gordon herself, and had taken to school that afternoon not only an um-brella, but a pair of rubbers. And see-ing the two children go away so happily together she started for home with the reflection that little heros and heroines could be produced in her school as well as anywhere else in the wide world, and that the beginning of affection of such young persons for each other was the purest and best of everything in human nature.

As the two innocents were crossing the street running by the schoolhouse, teams and cars were passing swiftly and Jim said: "Grip hold of my arm tight, Alice Marian, so if I have to jump quick to avoid a team or car, I won't let you slip away from me." He felt her hold tighten on his arm. A big motor car came rolling along and he jerked the little miss out of the way just in time to prevent her from being hit. "Gee!" he exclaimed, "that was a narrow escape for us. I didn't hurt you did I?" (They had stopped on the sidewalk to take breath).

Alice Marian: "No, indeed; But you are strong, though."

Jim: "Am I? Oh, I'm so glad that you are not hurt any. I had to act quick. I hope you are going to like me."

Alice Marian: "Of course I am, and the teacher is too."

Jim: "Do you think so? Oh, I'm awful glad. She is so good to us all. And she knows her business—you bet—excuse me, I shouldn't say you bet—and she is far and away—out of sight—there, there I shouldn't say that either—ahead of any teacher I went to school to at Lakeport."

Alice Marian: "Everybody calls you Tom's boy. He is the hero of all the young folks because he shot the tramp, you know."

Jim: "Yes, I s'pose I am. He got me here, but I'm mother's boy, too. Hope I'll be of some good to you. I never see anyone like you before. You are so smart, modest and ladylike—just like the pretty pictures in magazines, and picture books."

Alice Marian: "Oh I think I don't look so well as that. Perhaps you won't like me so well when you know me bet-ter."

Jim: "Yes, I will, better and better—ever and ever so much more—and I was going to say—never say die—but that ain't just the thing to say to you is it?"

Alice Marian: "No I suspect not, but Miss Gardner will teach you to talk correctly."

They had reached her home where the little beauty expressed her thanks, at which Jim lifted his cap like a little gentleman as he turned and walked away.

HARRISON OLD HOME WEEK

Harrison Old Home Week was a fine success. One of the big events of the week was the Cabaret Night Club, Fri-day, which had an audience of over 200 at Bristol Studio, which was beautifully decorated by flowers and bunting. Dec-oration committee: Mrs. F. O. Ayres of New York, chairman, assisted by Mrs. C. C. Doughty of Harrison and Portland, and Harold Staples of Biddeford and Waterford; food committee, chairman, Mrs. Will Caswell of Austin, Texas; Clarence Dow of Braintree, Mass., in charge of drinks and cigars. Mrs. James G. Stradling of Atlantic City, had charge of the entertainment. The committee this year was fortunate in having both Stanley Olmstead, author and dramatic critic of the Washington (D. C.) Herald and Mrs. Olmstead (Miss Dillon), who have written and coached and acted in several comedy "black-outs". Also Jer-ome Swinford is making his annual vis-it to Mr. and Mrs. Stradling, while pre-paring his trans-continental concert tour.

Eight young men, under the experi-enced leadership of Gaylord Young, had formed, themselves into an orchestra for this occasion. The others are "Chink" Roberts, banjo, anod Isaaiah Webb, traps, both of Bridgton; Hart Leavitt and "Bob" Grey, saxaphones, of Lovell; Ralph Libby of Portland, trumpet; Ver-non Hagenbuckle of Long Lake Lodge, violin; Norman Sharp of Austin, Texas, piano.

Hugh Walton, popular announcer of WABC, New York city, was master of ceremonies; he and Eleanor Loree of New Jersey opened the program with a dialogue and dance.

Camp Ha-wa-ya of Harrison presented Ha-Wa-Ya Riview: harmonica band, cho-rus, 8 piece orchestra.

Eleanor McMann of Providence scored with her dancing; "Jim" Chadbourne of North Bridgton contributed a clever fe-male impersonation; Miss Dillon, Larry Fink of New York and Jerome Swinford of New York were loudly applauded in the "black-out" written by Mr. Olm-stead. There was a lively finale of the first half of the program, all actors ap-pearing review for dancing and singing climax.

After a ten-minute intermission for re-freshments and dancing, Rose Helen Stuhlman, colatura-soprano of New York, opened the program by singing, "When Love Comes Along."

Harry Lundy of New York and Na-ples, and his sister, Nan Cupp, gave a cleved Pennsylvania Dutch sketch and dia-logue, with dialect true to life. Lester Brenizer of Austin, Texas, was, as al-ways, enthusiastically received and sang several cowboy songs in costume.

Mrs. James G. Stradling and Mr. Olm-stead made a hit in the second comedy "black-out". There was a slow tempo finish to the show, with Mrs. Stuhlman singing reprise of "When Love Comes Along."

After the performance a second orches-tra furnished music for the dancing.

The village square was roped off for street dancing, for which another or-chestra furnished music. Without doubt greater crowds than ever attended, possi-bly due to the fact that the entire com-mon was brilliantly lighted, as well as the booths, ferris wheel, swinging-chairs, merry-go-round, etc.

Prizes were given for the grand parade, which was a big feature of the week. A display of spirited horses was thrilling. The prize winning float was the original idea of an ox team of early settlers, who were closely pursued by Indians. The parade was headed by Miss Clarie Caswell of Austin, Texas as a cowgirl and riding a spirited horse. A silver cup was first prize. A prize of $20 was won by Frank Bennett for the best decorated car. Prize of a silver cup was won for a float depicting an airplane made by Sam Pitts. Best decorated float was by the Redmen of Bridgton. Another silver cup was won by Ha-Wa-Ya for the best showing of the summer camps.

On account of the storm the motorboat races were one hour late. In class B, Carl Ault of Harrison won first place, with Hosmer of Norway, second. Sec-ond class, a family boat race, was won by Cobb of Norway Lake, and Dow of Mas-sachusetts. The free for all was won by Cobb, Norway Lake, second, Ault, Ham-ilton, N. Y., third, Hosmer of Norway. The starter was John Malone of Tampa, Fla., and the judges were Jasper Harmon, William Caridge, both of Westbrook and Sam Pitts of Harrison.

OAKLAND-PONTIAC

up to $170

We have just been advised by the Oakland Motor Car Company that, effective August 11th, prices on all current model Pontiac Big Sixes and Oakland Eights have been reduced . . . with reductions up to $170.

Pontiac Big Six—now $665 and up

A big car at small car price

Oakland Eight—now $895 and up

America's lowest-priced Eight

These reductions are made because in the winter the factory will present two new cars which, while changed enough to classify as new models, will remain practically unchanged in appearance, size and design.

The two new cars will have the same type engines used in the cars now offered.

These new prices give you an opportunity to own a big car at small car cost and at a great saving.

Don't miss this opportunity. At their new low prices these cars are the greatest "buys" in the automobile field today.

Trumbulls Returned Home—Field Day Events and Prizes Awarded.

The entertainment given at the Grange Hall, Friday evening, was excellent and the Hall was full and a nice sum of money was taken. Proceeds were given for the benefit of the gymnasium fund. The girls from Camp Schowisha and Mrs. Wiske's and some of the other summer company gave this entertainment.

Mrs. Lura Trumbull and son, Lyndell, returned to their home in Massachusetts, Sunday.

Walter L. Bacon of Norway visited his niece, Miss Myrtle Bacon, who is at her summer home, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elden Ross of Rumford have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Claire Hathaway, at her cottage here.

Mrs. John Hathaway has been in Boston, Mass., a few days. Her son, Ross Hathaway, burn, brought her home, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Buck and family visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Swan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Everett Howe, Pearl Pendleton and son, Arthur, went to Gorham, N. H., berrying, Sunday afternoon. They had fine luck.

The townspeople who were interested in the Parent-Teachers' field day had very much disheartened Saturday morning, when it looked as though it was in for a rainy day. Nevertheless, after showers, the committee hustled around necessary equipment to the V. I. S. and Grange Hall and other school houses, hoping to have a fair attendance at last.

At nine o'clock everything was ready for the crowd. Although the weather looked rather doubtful, all were trying for the best. Surely the weather was very kind, for after nine o'clock fine weather was given us.

In the forenoon the following program was carried out by the Stone Cup Committee. The prizes were awarded as follows:

100 yd. dash—1st, Ernest Howe; 2nd, Willard.

50 yd. fat lady's race—1st, Mrs. Ruth Howe; 2nd, Edith Hathaway.

50 yd. fat men's race—1st, Ralph Perkins; 2nd, Fred Turner.

High Jump—1st, Ernest Howe; 2nd, Willard.

Obstacle Race—1st, Donald Briggs; 2nd, Murray Cummings.

Paris Band furnished music for the day. At the Grange Hall, at noon, dinner was served to a large number and a good sum was realized.

The event of the afternoon was the ball games. First down from Bethel came their ball boys, with their hired battery, determined to make old Woodstock boys feel like two cents. But our boys thought their old standby's, Stowell and Emery, quite capable to compete. The Bethel boys departed for home, knowing just how it felt to be whitewashed. The score was Woodstock 3; Bethel 0.

The second game was a league game with Paris Hill. The locals won with a score of 13 to 5.

Supper was served at the Hall and one big day ended, with a dance in the evening. Music was furnished by Shems Orchestra of West Paris for round dances and Nate Noble, Kate Hammond and George Davis played for the old fashioned dances. A very good sum was realized and will be a big help in swelling the gymnasium fund. They had booths on the V. I. S. field, where things were sold, and two side shows.

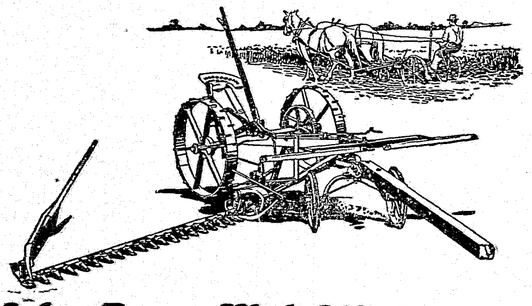
Handles Easier— Does Better Work



John Deere High-Lift Mower
(Equipped with Tongue Truck)

If you want to do a better job of mowing this year and for many years to come, go into your fields with a John Deere High-Lift Mower equipped with the quick-turn tongue truck.

The quick-turn tongue truck saves the horses and results in better work. The flexibly-mounted axle permits truck wheels to hold to the ground. There is no neck weight on the horses, and whipping of pole is eliminated. The truck always keeps the front end of mower frame at the correct height.

The improved lift on the John Deere is surprisingly easy to operate. By only slight pressure on the foot-lift you raise the bar high enough to pass over ordinary obstructions and when you put the hand-lift into use, the bar is easily raised to extreme height—the inner shoe is raised high enough to pass over any obstruction that can be cleared by the doubletrees and the knife continues to operate in this position.

Other advantages include balanced drive gears, which reduce wear and insure smooth running; special location of bevel pinion, which prevents end thrust; and 21-point clutch, which insures instant starting. All adjustments are made with ordinary tools.

We'll be glad to show you this improved mower.

NEW SOCONY BANNER GASOLINE

THE CHALLENGE IS ANSWERED FOR A POPULAR-PRICE GASOLINE IN NORWAY

New Socony . . . the Banner Gasoline . . . answers the challenge of quick starting . . . pick-up . . . power . . . mileage . . . anti-knock . . . freedom from gum

IT'S here . . Banner Gasoline . . a New Socony Gasoline as far ahead in the popular-price class as Socony Special plus Ethyl is in the premium field. Here are six reasons why new Socony Banner Gasoline improves the performance of your car . . six reasons why, once you have tried Banner, you will stick to it.

1. It's made to start quickly. The proper amount of low boiling points in this new Socony Gasoline gives quickest starting.

2. It's made for instant pick-up. The intermediate range of boiling points in this Banner Gasoline gives you the quickest pick-up.

3. It's built for power. The proper percentage of power-producing boiling points in this new Socony Gasoline gives additional power which you are sure to feel the first time you try Banner.

4. It gives maximum mileage and economy. The exacting range of boiling points in this Banner Gasoline gives you more mileage at less cost because it burns clean with a minimum of carbon and dilution.

5. It has high anti-knock value. Banner Gasoline comes by its high anti-knock rating naturally, because it is made from only those crude oils in which this characteristic is inborn.

6. It is free from gum. The annoyance and expense resulting from gum-sticking valves and other parts are entirely absent.

These are facts based on actual road tests made in Portland, Lewiston, Augusta and Bangor, August 7th, 8th, 9th and 11th.

Political Talk

By R. L. Cummings of West Paris

Rip Van Winkle slept twenty years (so the story goes) after he had freely imbibed of the contents of those kegs to which the men of the mountains had treated him.

As a people we have been in a sleep or trance since 1912, and unless we break the record of said Van Winkle, we are due for awakening in our Presidential year in 1932.

From the time Roosevelt took office at the death of President McKinley, until he voluntarily stepped down from the Whitehouse Theodore Roosevelt had applied the brakes to the joy ride that big business was having with this country of ours. As long as he was at the helm this great ship of State was pointing and steered to serve the interests of the people, steered by the same compass and chart that those wise and far seeing forefathers of ours used when this ship was built and started on its voyage for all mankind.

It is the duty of every good citizen to see that this government fulfills the purpose for which it was designed. To protect and advance the interests of all the people. "If we but succeed in creating a country of great, but badly distributed wealth, we shall have most miserably failed." At the present time we are traveling with the greatest speed toward such a failure. The wealth of the country is being drained to Europe and our so called friends. While our industrial plants [illegible] this Government [illegible] they know that [illegible] to [illegible] Every [illegible] knows that [illegible] billions of dollars [illegible] to [illegible] are in other [illegible] We are [illegible] and [illegible] while [illegible] this country [illegible] the [illegible] fact that they have applied this [illegible] would be as good an indicator of [illegible] future action as any statement that they may make.

Our particular section of the country is at this moment facing a very serious issue. Railroad rates have already been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission that will take about $40,000,000.00 annually from this section in increased rates. These roads are in the best financial and physical condition in their history (The statement of President Hoover). Why then this great increase that must come from the now overtaxed industries of this section? But this is not all by any manner of means. The O'Fallon Railway Case is at the present time being tried as a test case, and if decided in their favor, will pave the way for further advances. Perhaps we can understand the situation in this way: When certain western railroads were built, they were given, not only their right of way, but in addition were given all the land within twenty miles on each side to that right of way. In case they succeeded in this case they will not charge rates on their actual investment, but on the present cost of construction. So where a city has been built and land is worth one dollar a foot, they would collect a dividend on the value of one dollar for every foot of land there occupied.

Pursuing this course we will soon come to the point where the American citizen has lost his freedom and will occupy a position of servitude, where the only prosperous people will be those that fatted from the gratuities and crumbs that fall from their master's table.

There is great need that people think seriously on these matters and go to the polls and vote their honest convictions.

THE NEW MEMBER OF THE SOLAR FAMILY

On March 13th, 1930, announcement was made to the world of the discovery of the new planet. Awaiting for an appropriate name, the new object was called Planet X.

Ancients knew all the planets in Sol's family from dwarf Mercury to giant Jupiter, but not until 1781 did Wm. Herschel discover Uranus, then 65 years elapsed when Neptune was discovered by Leverrier and Adams in 1846. Now, after another period of 84 years, the new discovery.

C. W. Tombaugh, assistant on the staff at Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona, on January 21st. of the present year, detected by a superimposed photograph plate of stars on several plates of different dates, a blink effect. This was in the constellation Geminorum (the twins) slightly west of the star Delta, about where Percival Lowell predicted years ago, a trans-Neptune planet might be found.

The object is of about the fifteenth magnitude and follows the ecliptic closely at about 30 seconds of arc daily. It would require a telescope of 13 inch aperture to reveal the planet on a clear, moonless night, and its faintness as a basis for estimate would indicate its diameter to be probably much smaller than the giant planets Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune, possibly as small as Mercury (3100 miles) and probably no larger than Mars (4200) or the earth (7900 miles) in diameter.

When Neptune was discovered, its distance from the sun was found to be 30 astronomical units (93 millions of miles equals 1 astronomical unit or the distance of the earth from the sun) but Planet X is found to be 40 astronomical units from the sun or 3 and 7-10 billions of miles.

Computations show that the previous "August" of Planet X was in 1680; 250 years ago. At a distance of 40 astronomical units, its surface temperature would hardly be higher than 380 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit.

No comets have been found at the distance of the new planet and the planet outshines a hundred-fold the largest asteroid, Ceres (480 miles diameter). The planet X has not been given a name, officially, but the discoverers have suggested the name Pluto in honor of the god of regions of darkness. The great astronomical societies will probably decide what name will be most appropriate. The name Pluto, as a name for the new planet was as far as known, first suggested by a girl 11 years old, who lives in Oxford, England, and her name is Miss Venetia Burney.

See us about that needed bathroom

It might as well be admitted—most houses need more bathrooms. But most home owners don't know costs or space requirements; so they can't decide whether that needed extra bathroom is really a possibility or not.

Why not let us do the measuring and figuring? We'll put the whole plan down in black and white for you to pass on—and not charge you for estimating, either. If you want the best work, finest fixtures (we sell the famous Kohler Ware), and fair and square prices, see us.

Bass Bait Planting

In Lake Thompson, Oxford

Game Warden, J. L. Walker, says food for bass is being put in Lake Thompson in the shape of crawfish taken from Rang Pond in Poland. Two thousand of them is the number expected to be put in.

The expense is borne by the Lake Thompson Fish and Game Association, with the Androscoggin Association and local citizens and summer guests.

Rang Pond was stocked with crawfish by a southern visitor coming to Poland Spring some yeears ago. He brought with him a liberal supply for bait and what was not used was liberated and now there is a good supply and bass seem to thrive in that water better than in Thompson Lake.

BACK TO MAINE

I have come home, oh Maine!
I am your child again.
Back to your rock-bound shore.
Back to your hills once more.
Sweet with the scent of pine.
I have come home again.

Here have I longed to be:
Here is the heart of me.
Back near your mountains high.
Looming against the sky.
Dark clad and rugged:
Here is my spirit free.

I have come home, oh Maine!
I am your child again.
